

Walking to the IPhT from the Residhome

The basic route is shown in the google maps diagram:

(Note: Google Maps will not show the direct route to the IPhT because the back gate is not considered public access. The route is correctly shown above.)

The walk is about 1.8 km, and climbs about 75m to the plateau and takes about 30 minutes.

There are variant routes, the nicest simple variant is shown in as a solid dashed line...

The Direct Route

Head west along Rue de la Guyonnerie. After 850m there is a crossroads with Avenue Louis Scocard and Chemin de Moulon, but your route along Rue de la Guyonnerie continues as Rue Gustave Vatonne.

Go another 550m and turn right onto a walking path between the houses. (See picture.)

After 200m you cross a road with a brown surface, keep heading up into the forest (See pictures below.)

Climb the “Endless Stair” ~130 Steps, and ~ 70 m vertical climb,
and turn left at the top

One sometimes encounters helpful wizards ... (but, hopefully, no balrogs)

Go along the path ~250m to the back gate of the CEA and enter, proceeding to the building in front of you. Enter the building, turn right and go along the corridor ~75 m until you arrive at Amphi Bloch.

A slightly nicer variant

At the crossroads with Avenue Louis Scocard and Chemin de Moulon, turn right up Chemin de Moulon, and go 200m and turn left onto the brown path...

Go along the brown path for ~600m and you will merge with the previous route:
